A Private Forest.

Some years ago we had a large sum of money that we were not using, and as it lay idle in our coffers, we decided to purchase a fine building site in northeast Laramie, improve it, and sell it at a large profit. Being considerably struck with the primeval beauty and solemn magnificence of the evergreen, we decided at first to secure some spruces and make that corner a kind of spruce gum orchard, which would naturally be the envy and admiration of the West. Acting upon this impulse we purchased a load of this vegetable, setting out the trees on two sides of the plantation, and digging an irrigation ditch 264 feet long by which to water them. For two weeks the irrigation ditch failed to connect with the central office, and we carried water to the trees through the agency of a mechanical arrangement known as the patent pail.

All these trees died of the pinkeye but one.

We then sent East and purchased 100 seedlings of the Norway spruce variety, and fringed the ditch with them, protecting them from the hot sun by means of wide shingles placed on the south side. These trees staggered along through the summer, and when winter sat in were pale and emaciated, but cheerful and hopeful for the future. The winter was an unusually severe one, and toward spring a large, lonely cow, known throughout the west as Dr. Tanner, in an unguarded moment got over the inclosure and ate the entire forest.

We had almost decided at that time to abandon timber culture in Wyoming, but when vernal spring opened we decided to get some choice trees from the adjacent mountains and make one grand farewell effort. One pleasant day we consented to make a picnic excursion into the Black Hill with a small party of friends, and while others packed the large lunch baskets we put into the barouche, a spade and some other burglar's tools. The picnic was not a financial or social success. Picnics very rarely are.

A bottle of glycerine that had been brought by one of the young ladies to protect her hands from the rigorous climate, got broken and worked itself into the sponge cake, and a pint of campher got mixed up with the pie. A rain storm came up also and created a lunch basket full of chaos which we emptied out under a tree.

While the rest of the party gathered wood violets and a rare endogenous plant vulgarly termed "beggar's lice," we skirmished around and gathered small spruce trees.

It was a glorious day for all. The sun came out just long enough to peel the noses of the party and then went under a cloud, followed by a cold rain and hail. All that had been brought along to eat was spoiled except some candy with mottoes on the side. When you have been riding all day in the vigorous air of the mountains and have to fill yourself up with a drink of warm water and a lozenge on which is printed "I can never be thine," it tends to hush the frivolous laughter of the giddy throng and make people get acquainted with each other in a way that is not pleasant. The mountain picnic has broken up more engagements and shattered more loving hearts than grim visaged war and the angry parent combined.

There are two prolific causes of crime in this country. One is rum and the other is the picnic.

But we deflect from the original line of thought.

Our trees were brought home and planted in the same old hole where we had been in the habit of killing evergreens.

By this time unemployed men had learned to look to us for steady work. One man wanted us to hire him at a salary to replace trees and haul away the deceased.

The new forest thrived during the summer until August when we were called away from town to put up a political job for the good of the country. We were absent two weeks and while away a neighbor who was erecting a croquet lawn, composed of wild buffalo grass and a velvety sweep of red sand, turned the humid contents of our ditch into his luxuriant graved patch where he was trying to promote the guileless game of croquet.

On our return, the sombre green of our little wilderness had changed to a dazzling sorrel color that looked like the big Michigan fire.

People sometimes ask us this season why we do not go into the tree business with our old enthusiasm, but we answer them rudely and harshly, for who can chat gaily of that which tears out his heart and grinds it into the grave of buried hopes. Bill Nye's Boomerang.

Queen Victoria at Home.

One of the greatest charms of Her Majesty has always been her voice. To the initiated the voice is always the clearest and most unfailing index of character. In contemporary literature we have repeated notes of admiration for this pure and peerless voice. "Lady de Dustanville was in the House of Peers when the Queen first appeared. It was a most imposing sight. Her voice was full, clear and sweet, and most distinctly heard." Passages of this kind might be multiplied. Miss Fox gives some very pleasing incidents of the early days. "Uncle Charles dined with us. He was delighted and dazzled by the display on the Queen's day, and mentioned a right merry quibble, perpetrated by my Lord Albemarle, who, on Her Majesty saying, 'I wonder if my good people of London are as glad to see me as I am to see them?' pointed out as their immediate cockney answer to the quibble V. R." She relates the touching incident that when the Queen drove one day to the Park, just after a dastardly attempt, in fear of assassination she "forbade her ladies to attend her and expose themselves to danger from which she would not shrink."

Stockmar came over nearly every year to visit the Queen and the Prince, and almost entirely took the management of the whole ménage into his hands. He put all the details of the management of the royal household on a sort of pinsophical basis. He passed at will from the broadest generalizations on the British Constitution to the smallest details of the nursery. The organization and superintendence of the children's department occupied a considerable portion of Stockmar's time. In one of his letters he writes: "The nursery gives me more trouble than the government of a kingdom would do." We may mention that the little Princess (the Crown Princess of Prussia), now a woman blooming with health and life, was for many years a sickly child, whose rearing long seemed a matter of doubt. He found that an odious system of red-tapeism pervaded the management of the royal household. It was in the hands of three great State officers—the Lord Steward, the Lord Chamberlain and the Master of the Horse. These are always noblemen of high rank and great political position, who, of course, delegate all the practical duties into the hands of subordinates. The result was that all the tricks of the Circumlocution Office were to be found in Buckingham Palace and Windsor Castle.

There was a great deal of the how-not-do-it element. The outside of the palace belonged to the department of Woods and Forests; the inside cleaning of the windows belonged to the Lord Chamberlain's department. The Lord Steward lays the fire and the Lord Chamberlain lights it. The Lord Chamberlain provides the lamps, and the Lord Steward must clean, trim and light them. If a window-pane was broken or a cupboard door went wrong, there was a whole series of formalities to be gone through before either could be mended. Stockmar complains that there was no one to receive visitors, and show them their rooms; and that they wandered about the corridors alone and unassisted. M. Guizot relates that this was a circumstance which once actually happened to himself. It was through this state of things that the boy Jones was enabled at one o'clock in the morning actually to hide himself under the sofa of the room next the Queen's bed-room, just after the birth of the Princess Royal. Once when the Queen was taken ill there was nobody whose business it was to attend to such a matter, until at last a domestic had the presence of mind to hail a cab to come to the door of Buckingham Palace and to drive off and fetch a doctor.

We have reason to believe all the anomalies which Stockmar pointed out in his memorandum have been rectified. The royal household is now a model to every household in the kingdom. Its guests are made as comfortable as in the most homelike home in the land. Indeed, in the pleasantness and freedom of the arrangement, Windsor Castle seems almost Liberty Hall to its visitors. —London Society.

Self-Salting Beef.

A new process of preserving meat has been introduced in England, in which, instead of steeping the carcass in an antiseptic, the preservative chemical, boracic acid is introduced into the live animal, and by the action of the heart is sent through the blood vessels and capillaries into every part of the body. The animal is first stunned, whereupon the left jugular vein is laid bare and the fluid injected, after which it takes about two minutes for it to go through the whole vascular system. Meat treated in this way can be preserved at ordinary summer temperature for five or six weeks.

DISTRICT SENATORIAL CONVENTION.

The Republicans of Macon and Logan counties, comprising the 20th senatorial district, are requested to send delegates to a district convention to be held at LINCOLN, ILL., on TUESDAY, AUGUST 8, 1882, at one o'clock p. m. for the purpose of nominating one candidate for state senator. The number of delegates to which each county will be entitled will be as follows:

Macon county, 7
Logan county, 5

JOHN A. BROWN, Chairman

REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

For State Treasurer
GEN. JOHN C. SMITH
Of Cook county

For Superintendent of Public Instruction
CHARLES T. STRATTON
Of Jefferson county

For Congressman—14th District
JONATHAN H. ROWELL
Of McLean county

FOR COUNTY CLERK

Geo. P. Hardy is to day announced for the Republican nomination for county clerk. Mr. Hardy's long experience as a municipal officer of the same character has proven that he is peculiarly well fitted to discharge the duties of a county clerk, and his kind and obliging disposition, as displayed amid the annoyances of his present position, gives assurance that he would be equally as accommodating in another place. Mr. Hardy belongs to the old time Republicans. He was among the first to identify himself with the new party, more than a quarter of a century ago, and has done good work in its service ever since. He has been in the harness as long as any of us, and deserves well of the party on this account, as well as because of his eminent fitness for the office to which he aspires.

Col. Proctor Hoomes of Botetourt county, Virginia, independent candidate for the legislature in this district, is by no means a sectional politician. His efforts to enlighten the people are not confined to the narrow limits of his own district, but sweep over, so to speak, upon the territory of many surrounding counties. Last evening he addressed the people of Bloomington upon the subject of better roads, which is one of the issues upon which he is running. It may be observed, in passing, that Phoenix is peculiarly well posted upon the subject of highways in Illinois, having been a sort of a political and journalistic excrescence for so many years past that the memory of man runneth not to the contrary.

The Danville Commercial nominates Hon. Joseph G. Cannon for United States senator, without consulting him or anyone representing him, and proceeds to tell why he is the proper man for that high office. Well, why wouldn't he make a good senator? The man who can sustain himself for ten years in the lower house of congress, and continue to grow in power and usefulness all the time furnishes the very best proof of his fitness for a higher position.

Col. John S. Wise, the Readjuster candidate for congressman at large in Virginia, is pretty sure to be elected. On Tuesday he fought a duel at six o'clock in the morning (without spilling any blood) and at three in the afternoon of the same day addressed a large mass meeting. The ability to accomplish such feats makes a man a popular idol in the Old Dominion.

S. D. Fisher, secretary of the Illinois Board of Agriculture, who has a magnificent office in the state house and is paid a salary out of the state treasury, has gone to St. Louis to superintend the printing of the posters for the Illinois state fair. It is such little things as this that cause the quiet observer to conclude that the fool killer has been derelict in his duty of late.

There has been some talk of nominating ex-President Hayes for congress, in the Toledo district, but his friends say he would not accept. The convention will be held at Piqua, August 23.

A Blind Wagonmaker.

Atlanta (Ga.) Banner-Watchman

A gentleman in Athens says there is a blind wagonmaker in Walton county, and one night while passing his house our informant had his buggy to break down. He woke up the man, who went into his shop without any light, put two new spokes in the wheel, shrunk the tire, and started him on his way rejoicing. And he further affirms that it was the best job of work he ever had done.

The Milwaukee Republican reports that the estimated total amount of old grain in store along the lines of the western roads centering in that city is about 7,000,000 bushels. Of this there are about 2,000,000 bushels along the line of the Burlington, about 1,000,000 bushels on the Rock Island, about 1,500,000 on the Northwestern, about 1,000,000 on the Milwaukee & St. Paul, about 250,000 bushels on the Alton, about 500,000 on the Illinois Central, and about 250,000 on the Wabash.

Why Democrats are Called Bourbons.

One of the prominent characteristics of the kings of the house of Bourbon, who ruled over France from the beginning of the reign of Henry of Navarre, in 1589, down to the revolution in 1791, was a blind faith in the political doctrines of the past. This trait of the Bourbons became more conspicuous after the restoration of their family to power in 1814. Immediately subsequent to the overthrow of the first Napoleon when Louis XVIII received the sceptre. Expelled soon afterward, this prince was restored in 1815, and reigned until his death in 1824. It was remarked that he carried himself much as if the great revolution had never existed. Whatever progress France made during his sovereignty toward regenerating her wasted energies and prosperity was accomplished without any real help from Louis. He was succeeded by his brother Charles X, a firm believer in the divine right of kings, who soon entered upon a reactionary policy, intended to abolish all the rights and privileges of the people which had remained to them as fruits of the revolution. Trampling on the constitution, the king and his ministers, July 25, 1830, issued an edict interdicting the freedom of the press, dissolved the chambers, which had just been elected, and proposed to rule by supreme prerogative. But the people rose in their might, forced him to abdicate, and placed Louis Phillipe, a scion of the dukes of Orleans, a younger and more liberal branch of the Bourbon line, on the throne. He reigned until driven into exile by the revolution of 1848, since which time no Bourbon has been suffered to rule in France. The conceit, bigotry, vindictiveness and despotic proclivities of this house gave rise to the remark that "the Bourbons learn nothing and forget nothing." The course pursued by that large portion of the Democratic party in America, which, after the war of the rebellion had entered on its last stages, and even long after it was over, maintained that the emancipation proclamation, the financial policy of the government, the reconstruction laws, the constitutional amendments, and pretty much every act by which the Union had maintained and proposed to preserve its existence, was unconstitutional, were called Bourbons. Every man who at this time in this country's history declines to accept the issues of the war, as regards the doctrines of secession, state rights, the right of the negro to vote, etc., as a finality, may be unmistakably classed as a Bourbon.

It is refreshing to consider how enthusiastic the Democrats are for a pure civil service reform. It gives them sincere sorrow to see Republican presidents and congressmen pestered and badgered by pesky office seekers. When a man is elected to a high office, he ought, of course, to be raised above personal and party cares, and spend his whole time in the service of the great public. He ought never to be required to give audience to the humble men who befriended him and aided in his election. If he received assistance he should forget it as soon as he is elected, and treat with contempt the sycophants who fawn around him for crumbs and favors; indeed, he should not only ignore his old friends, but use his official position to secure appointments for all his former political opponents. This would be heaping coals of fire on their heads and turning their wrath to praise. All this is, of course, just what the Democrats would do if they held the offices. No reliable man can say they wouldn't, for no one, unless he has a provokingly long memory, recollects when the Democracy were in power and able to say they didn't do this very way. But we think they may be relieved by the assurance that as long as the Republicans are in power and there are worthy Republicans enough to fill all the appointments, Democrats need not apply. There is a common conviction in the mind of the majority in this country, that a good Republican is better than the average Democrat and as long as this continues, Democrats may hardly expect a division of the offices in the Republican administration.
State Journal.

The Evangelist Barnes

The evangelist Barnes not only succeeded in leading the Democratic governor of Kentucky and several other state officials to flee from the wrath to come, but was so instrumental in the salvation of about thirty convicts in the state prison at Frankfort. They were recently escorted by an armed guard to the river and baptized with decorum, and without any attempt to escape. On their return to the prison the walls echoed with songs of praise and prayer, reminding one of the experience of Paul and Silas eighteen centuries ago. It is said that the Mountain Evangelist carries a town by storm when he first enters it. He is an eloquent and educated man, a returned missionary from India, and speaks seven languages with fluency. His sermons are free from the rant so common to revival meetings, and are described as couched in simple language, but of great brilliancy and scholastic power. His converts are not in the interest of any church or creed, and affiliate as they may feel disposed, without any attempt at dictation. He is doing a great work in an unostentatious manner, and winning the respect of the godly and ungodly alike.

For the REPUBLICAN

Jefferson Democratic Meeting First Precinct

HELD AT TAMMANY HALL, JULY 25.

FELLOW DEMOCRATS—That pup won't suck. But the man who got the name up should have a brass medal after the style of the deathless 206. It has given me an idea which, if our party will accept, cannot fail to accomplish our heartfelt desires. You may name the second precinct Jackson, the third VanBuren, the fourth the Buchanan. Floyd & Co. Democratic precinct, but it will avail nothing. We must abrogate the once popular name of Democrat entirely—it is too utterly utter. I love the name. Dad was a dimmocrat; there is music in it. Well, in a word, it is sweetness long drawn out. Talk about a rose smelling as sweet by any other name! Why, it is preposterous. But strategy, my boys, compels me to suggest its total abolition. We cannot beat the Republicans this fall, nor in 1884, under that name. With another name we can carry the tariff matter and prohibitionist idea, by making them local, as we did the hard and soft money muddle. Sing a psalm in the east and a hymn in the west. This scheme properly managed, with other isms we have espoused (and I would include opposition to the pernicious practice of manufacturing toy pistols) we can succeed. Let us hasten the time. My heart burns with impatience; I feel like Peri at the gates. Our exclusion from Eden. "Full in the sight of Paradise Beholding heaven, yet feeling hell." We have endured this horrible suspense for twenty two years. Let us have a change. We must adopt another name, and it will prevent Balaam's ass and all others from braying and saying such naughty things, and then the Chicago Times cannot say that the Democratic party is a mere catcher on of everything that is detestable, will subscribe to any creed, swallow any dogma, accept any superstition, believe in any fallacy and swear by any infernal fanaticism, to get power.

The aforesaid programme will help us this campaign and assure our success in 1884, when we will drop the dogmas of the present day and settle down to our first love, with our wayward sisters of the solid south, and inscribe on our banners "Free Trade and Rebels' Rights."

PATRIOT.

Picnics.

Locusta Gaulic.

Why, in the spring of the year, do picnics become epidemic, and young and old, rich and poor, rush off into the woods to eat their lunch under the trees, and be fed on by ticks and mosquitoes? It is simply because for tens of thousands of years man was in a nomadic condition. He wandered about with his family in the woods, living on berries and being annoyed by insects, and though man has become civilized and lives in a house, yet, nevertheless, about once a year an irresistible desire to return to his old vagabond life comes over him, and he just has to go on a picnic, after which he cools down for the rest of the year and puts sweet oil on the tick bites. Just so with woman gardening. Until quite recently woman had to do all the hard work in the fields. She had to dig up the ground, plant the crop, and gather it, until it became a second nature to her. Her husband was kind enough to encourage her to keep on by shaking a stick at her when she wanted to sit down and rest, but it was below his dignity to work. Such was the condition of woman from the beginning of time. It will be remembered that Adam was too lazy to gather in the apples, so Eve had to do it for him. Of course all this is changed now. All that most women do in the way of hard work is to dress up and go to parties, but every spring she cannot resist the impulse to put on her worst clothes and drudge with a hoe out in the front yard as she used to a thousands of years ago.

THE ONLY FOREPAUGH

He is Coming with the Greatest Show on Earth—A Brilliant Pageant and Costly Array of Talent.

We are pleased to announce the prospective arrival here of the Great Forepaugh Show, which is billed to exhibit at Decatur, Wednesday, August 23d. This Show, always one of the best on the road, has been greatly enlarged and improved for 1882, and in addition to a number of novelties and startling specialties that are presented by no other management, Mr. Forepaugh has been liberal to the public for the past eighteen years continuously, and during that time has earned a reputation for enterprise and reliability that is as enviable as it is deserved. One of the most praiseworthy features of Mr. Forepaugh's Show has always been the absolute order and decorum and total absence of anything which could offend the most sensitive taste. In all cities where they exhibit, the clergy will be found among the most zealous of their patrons, launching to the utmost issues of the concert and heartily approbating the principles, particularly the trained animals in their almost human performances.

The Zoological department is by far the most complete and grand that ever was controlled by any manager. Mr. Forepaugh has spared no expense in securing the most valuable and rare animals to be produced, and, as a result, he exhibits a carry from city to city a host of beasts of the field and jungle, birds of prey, songsters, and those of gorgeous plumage, that defies competition and treat an interest and a study the famous Zoological Gardens of the Old World. He exhibits a colony of trained animals in tricks and exhibitions that seem quite equal to the performing human kind, monkeys, dancing bears, trained horses, educated mules, performing ponies, trained hyenas, acting elephants, learned seal, disciplined zebras, educated dogs, badgers, beavers, birds, pony mules and other animals.

The specialty artists are all from the foremost ranks of the profession in this country and Europe, none but stars being engaged.

On the morning of the exhibition here there will be a grand spectacular street parade from the encampment, an epitome of which, we are glad to say, is promised for 1882.

This is the only honest show which has ever visited this town, and under the same management. While other managers are failing every year, notwithstanding their flaming advertisements and pretentions of exhibitions that never were or will be seen, Mr. Forepaugh steadily holds his own, increasing year by year the variety and number of his attractions, and invariably living up to the promises heralded in his bills, which, with the facilities from controlling the largest and most successful combination of circus and menagerie in the world, and giving for the same price of admission, furnish under shelter, an entertainment that surpasses anything ever before known to the world of showdom and canvas.

NEWS BY TELEGRAPH.

ILLINOIS POLITICS.

As Viewed from Washington.

Horrible State of Affairs in Alaska.

WASHINGTON, July 26. General Raum, commissioner of internal revenue, will make ten speeches in Maine during August. He will leave here on the 13th of the month, and make his opening speech at Portland on the 15th. From Maine he goes to Illinois, and will be on the stump in that state for two months, making his first speech at Joliet on the 13th day of September. Realizing, as he says he does, that if he succeeds in his candidacy for the United States senate, the prize can only be won after a tremendous struggle against his distinguished and crafty competitors, Gen. Raum, while traveling over the prairie state, and making speeches for the Republican ticket generally, will give special attention to his own canvass for David Davis' seat. Although feeling hopeful of the result, Raum admits that in the race in the field, with so many entries, the odds are against him.

It is the purpose of Senator Logan not to take the stump in the fall campaign in Illinois till about the first of October. The wear and tear of the eight months' session of congress has been very trying upon him, and he realizes the absolute necessity for the preservation of his health by a month or two of entire abstinence from work. At the earliest period possible after the close of the session he will go to his home in Chicago. After a sojourn there for a few days, accompanied by Mrs. Logan, he proposes going first to the Hot Springs of Arkansas, and later to New Mexico, and perhaps Colorado. With invigorated health and renewed strength, Senator Logan proposes to be upon the stump in Illinois from the first of October to the election in November.

A letter received here to day from Monmouth, Ill., says that Gen. Marsh has beaten Col. McClaughry badly in Warren county, at the primary election. His friends here are highly elated with the news, and express themselves as now quite sanguine of his nomination. They say that the result of the contest, in their opinion, hinged upon the action of Warren county, and that county having instructed for Gen. Marsh, secures his nomination.

It is not unlikely that the Hon. D. C. Smith, of Pekin, Ill., now in congress from the old Bloomington district, will reconsider his determination, announced some time since, not to stand for a nomination in the new Thirteenth congressional district. This district is Democratic by nearly 3,000, and Springer has just been nominated as the Democratic candidate therein. Should Congressman Smith accept a nomination at the hands of the Republicans of the district, it will not be, his friends say, with a hope of overcoming this heavy Democratic majority, but with the expectation of having the honor of largely reducing that majority.

WASHINGTON, July 26.—The Star route trial was proceeded with to day, but the testimony was of no interest.

Bliss gave notice to the court of his intention to put in evidence those portions of the report of the postmaster general referring to orders for increase and expedition, since 1872, which statement provoked a long debate and objections from the defense. The court saw no objection to the introduction of evidence which he believed would show that Brady had largely increased the service beyond the usage of the department; but of course the defense would have a right to show why these orders had been made. To this Totten objected, because he foresaw that if the evidence was taken, it probably would prolong the trial six months.

After a long argument the court ruled out the evidence, stating Brady stood charged with conspiracy and also that it was not proper to convict him because he had departed from the practices of his official ancestors in increasing the service. He therefore thought it would only embarrass the issues in the case and prolong the trials.

Merrick offered in evidence the drafts on the Corpus Christi San Antonio route, produced by Witness Walsh. After argument the court ruled that the drafts were not admissable as evidence under the circumstances.

The prosecution then called Breckeyzer, receiver of the German American national bank. His testimony was postponed till to morrow. Merrick stated that he believed they would close their case to morrow. Adjourned.

PORT TOWNSEND, W. T., July 26.—The steamer Mastick has arrived from Sitka. The United States steamer Wachusse dropped in to Sitka June 17, and after coaling, sailed for Wrangel Land, taking both surgeons, and leaving no medicine for the sick. Deaths among the Russian Creoles from scarlet fever and measles continue. No brandy is obtainable, and it is much needed. If a man imports a gill of brandy into Alaska to save his dying child, he is liable to be sent to the penitentiary.

OTTUMWA, Iowa, July 26. The first clean-up of the Briscoe (Wapello county) gold mines took place yesterday. The result was a gold and silver brick weighing 44 ounces avoirdupois. Two-thirds of the gold and one-third of the silver was the result of a three-days run of the mill. The excitement is growing, and the successful working of the ore is no longer doubtful.

REPEATED false alarms do not yet prevent a large part of the British public from eyeing suspiciously and handling gingerly any unexpected package which the expressman may bring them. A parcel received not long ago at Chatsworth, the seat of the Duke of Devonshire, being supposed to contain Fenian explosives, was turned over to the police to open; when they had cautiously uncovered it piecemeal, it was found to be filled with specimens of silver ore. The other day some boxes were discovered in a railway carriage, during the visit of the Prince of Wales to Bradford; they were promptly announced to be infernal machines, but on taking apart the cases, the contents proved to be fireworks, presumably intended for his honor. Those instances are not so ludicrous as the previous one of a package sent to a member of the British government from a foreign country, whose infernal character smelt to heaven. This dangerous box was sent to Woolwich, and there the expert mechanicians of the government unscrewed it, when to their eyes was revealed a specimen of Peruvian guano.

Circular.

OFFICE OF THE STATE ENTOMOLOGIST,
NORMAL, ILL., July 10, 1882.

In order that the work of this office may be brought into immediate practical relation to the largest possible number of those for whose benefit it is specially intended, viz: those whose crops are exposed to insect injuries, the undersigned cordially and earnestly invites a prompt correspondence from agriculturists and horticulturists throughout the state.

All inquiries respecting injurious insects and the methods of limiting or preventing their injuries, will be answered as promptly as the circumstances of the case and the resources of the office will permit; but all such inquiries should be accompanied, if at all possible, by specimens of the insects themselves. These should usually be killed in alcohol, packed in moist cotton in a small box, and sent by mail, prepaid at the rate of one cent an ounce. Caterpillars, grubs, and the like, may be sent alive, in a tight tin box, with enough of their proper food to last until their arrival.

When the facts developed by such correspondence are of general interest and value, an abstract of them will be sent to the local papers of the vicinity of the inquirer, for publication, and to such agricultural papers of the State as wish them; and if the circumstances seem to call for it, the State Entomologist, or some competent assistant, will, if possible, visit the locality, for an investigation on the spot.

It is hoped that by this means, and with the intelligent cooperation of those most interested, the important facts of economical entomology may be brought to light when and where they are most needed.

Information respecting tricks injuries is as much to be desired as that concerning overt ones. That which is brought to the office this year, may be serious next; and many injuries which can be prevented, if taken in time, are beyond control when they become so aggravated as to cry aloud for relief.

S. A. FORBES,
State Entomologist.

THE Bloomington papers take occasion to exult over the defeat of the Decatur Reds at Lincoln on Tuesday. They could not crow over their own "clubs," and so they try to get a little consolation by bragging on deeds accomplished by nonresidents.

THE admission to the fair grounds during fair week, commencing Sept. 5th, will be: One entrance ticket, 50 cents; children under 15 years, 25 cents; conveyance, double or single, 25 cents; season ticket, $1.50; amphitheatre free. The races will be more attractive and interesting this year.

THE ladies of St. John's church will give a lawn party and promenade concert at the residence of Dr. King, on North Main street, on Tuesday, Aug. 1. There will be refreshments and the best of music. The reputation of the ladies of this society for pleasant entertainments gives assurance that this occasion will be an enjoyable one.

THE elegantly printed three-fold card invitations to be issued by the Decatur Masons to neighboring lodges, executed in the REPUBLICAN job rooms, were placed in the hands of the committee on invitation on yesterday, and will be sent out at once enclosed in cream envelopes. The ceremonies attending the laying of the corner-stone of the new Masonic temple will occur on August 10th, and will prove to be imposing in every respect. There will be many strangers not Masons here on that eventful day.

MARRIED TWENTY YEARS.

Delightful Celebration of the Event in Honor of Mr. and Mrs. I. A. Buckingham.

Double Surprise—Lawn Party—The Gifts.

The spacious and beautiful lawn surrounding the house of Buckingham, on West William street, last evening, was brilliantly illuminated by means of innumerable Chinese lanterns and other novel illuminating contrivances, and the inviting space was peopled with a merry company of guests, who had gathered there to participate in the surprise celebration of an interesting social event—the 20th anniversary of the marriage of Mr. Isaac A. Buckingham and Miss Mattie Simkins, who were joined in wedlock at Batavia, Clermont county, Ohio, on July 26, 1862, by Rev. Mr. Gest.

It was arranged in the beginning by Mrs. Buckingham that her husband should be the only one surprised, and she, with the assistance of a few friends, quietly invited the company to gather upon the lawn and in the dwelling at the time appointed; but the guests as quietly prepared to make Mrs. B. the victim of a surprise, and thus arrange to make the event doubly interesting.

The first surprise was the assembling of the company before Mr. Buckingham had left his home to wrestle with knotty law points in his office. He knew nothing of the coming of so many friends, but all were made heartily welcome, the genial attorney extending the hospitalities of the family with his accustomed cordiality.

The evening was delightfully pleasant for out-door festivities, and the company promenaded and chatted upon the smooth lawn while was being prepared for the company under the direction of a number of ladies. The banquet was complete in every respect, and was discussed with a keen relish by all who gathered at the tables arranged upon the lawn in a circle, party fashion.

Near the conclusion of the feast, the second surprise occurred, which, so far as the hostess was concerned, was a complete revelation. It was the presentation to Mrs. Buckingham of a costly and beautiful China dinner set of 160 pieces by the company present. The handsome gift had been secreted at the home of Mrs. Nichols, and at the appointed time it was brought upon the lawn and inside the circle of tables by a number of gentlemen. Thereupon Mayor Waggoner, who acted as spokesman for the donors, presented the gift to Mrs. Buckingham in a few well chosen words, and on behalf of his wife Mr. Buckingham received it, and responded in his most felicitous manner. The gift was made by the following named persons, who were present:

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Cann, Mr. E. McNabb, Mr. and Mrs. P. B. Provost, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Provost, Mr. and Mrs. John Lytle, Mr. H. H. Bishop, Mrs. Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. L. Westerman, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Young, Mrs. M. Y. Givler, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Haines, Mrs. S. S. Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. James Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Kline, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Huddleston, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Summers, Miss Lola Boyd, Miss Ada Boyd, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. P. Nichols, Mr. and Mrs. B. K. Hamsher, Mr. and Mrs. M. Dempsey, Mr. and Mrs. John Flood, Miss Mary Flood, Mr. Arthur Flood, Mr. and Mrs. John Swearingen, Mr. and Mrs. I. W. Ehrman, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Waggoner, Miss Gracie Bear, Mr. and Mrs. P. Loach, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Randolph, Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong, Messrs. Max and Fritz Westerman, Mr. Arthur McNabb, Miss Mattie Westerman, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Butman, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Bear, Mr. and Mrs. John Quinlan, Miss Carrie Butman, Mr. and Mrs. I. D. Walker, Miss Allie Miller, Miss Annie Pegram, Mrs. Mary Kriscem, Miss Minnie Waggoner and Mr. and Mrs. John Boyer.

The other gifts informally presented were the following:

Majolica tea set—Sisters Alice and Lide; Belfast, Ohio.

Pair vases and mustache cup, Mrs. M. Y. Givler.

After dinner coffee set, in case, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Maffit.

Mr. and Mrs. Buckingham, who have resided in Decatur since a year after their marriage, have scores of fast friends in social circles, which fact was fully attested by the large and fashionable assembly of acquaintances last evening. The event as a whole was one of the pleasantest and most thoroughly enjoyable celebrations that has yet occurred. It seemed like a large family gathering, the warm greetings and hospitable attentions of Mr. and Mrs. B. making every one in the company feel perfectly at home.

It was not until a late hour that the company reluctantly departed for their separate homes, the couple being recipients of hearty wishes that they may live and prosper for many years to come.

A LARGE audience gathered at the opera house last evening to witness the first presentation in Decatur of the new American play in four acts entitled "A Square Man." This new creation, representing life and scenes in a mining camp, is similar to "M'liss," except that in "A Square Man" Jack marries the girl he had saved from freezing, whereas in "M'liss" Yuba Bill surrenders his claims to a nice young man who wins the heart of the mountain beauty. The leading characters in the new play, which is destined to live, are taken by Ben. Maginley, Miss Libbie Noxon, Maurice Heppard, DeLoss King, and C. W. Johnson, the latter a negro, who is certainly a wonder as a whistler, rendering selections from difficult popular music perfectly. He was recalled five times. "A Square Man" is one of the best plays of its character, and in plot and interest excels "M'liss" in many respects. It will draw well here again next winter.

THE Reds and the Printers' Nine are at loggerheads because the first named club will not play the latter unless the entire gate receipts and $50 aside are at stake. Why discriminate between home and foreign clubs? The captain of the Printers' Nine says he will not play the Reds unless the gate receipts are divided equally. And thus the matter stands.

MR. HENRY MARTIN, whose well improved farm is in Hickory township, has 35 acres of the finest Russian white oats one can find in a month's travel. Samples of this field of oats, which will yield full 90 bushels to the acre, are before us. The stalks are over five feet long, and the heads 15 inches in length.

Another Arrest.

A letter received at this office this morning from Taylorville, states that last evening at 6 o'clock William J. Montgomery was arrested and jailed, charged with being an accomplice in the recent dastardly outrage on the person of Emma Bond, who is still in a critical condition.—William is a brother of John Montgomery, who is at liberty under $5,000 bonds for his appearance on Tuesday next. It is represented that the arrest and imprisonment of William occasioned great excitement. He was leaving his home and was traced by a detective and arrested at Chatham, 18 miles west of Edinburg, on the Chicago & Alton railroad. The officers are now said to have a plain case against the parties arrested for the commission of the terrible crime. Our correspondent writes that the impression at Taylorville is that yet another party thought to be implicated in the affair will be arrested soon if he endeavors to leave the country. This seems to be an off-season for Christian county people to go visiting.

CRIMINAL CHIPS.

Happenings of Last Night and To-Day Briefly Stated.

THE WATCH THIEF.

This forenoon Mat Woods, the sable-hued individual who was arrested with Mrs. Hannah Smith's stolen gold watch on his person, had a hearing before Justice McGorray and was held to await the action of the December grand jury in the sum of $500. He went back to jail.

TWO BURGLARIES AT KENNEY.

During last night two daring burglaries were committed at Kenney, on the Illinois Midland Railway. Thompson & Robbins' general store was entered and $200 stolen. The other place entered was the village drug store and postoffice combined, from which the thief got about $400 in cash. A description of the supposed burglar has been telegraphed Marshal Hewes. He is represented as being about 30 years of age, six feet tall, dark eyes, black hair and whiskers, and wearing dark clothes and pointed toed shoes. Officers here are on the lookout for the fellow.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION.

This morning early the night policeman at Blue Mound arrested a tramp who gives his name as Lewis Finn, on suspicion of having attempted to commit the nameless outrage on the person of the seven year old daughter of Mrs. Blanton a few days ago, west of this city about a mile. Finn in a measure answers the description of the scoundrel as described by the little girl, in this, that he has a scab on his upper lip and has blisters on his lips; but he has no black chin whiskers. The girl thinks she would recognize the man if she could see him, as does also Mr. Andrew Dennis, who saw the fellow in his neighborhood at a distance of about 400 yards. Finn claims to be wholly innocent of the foul charge. He was brought to Decatur from Blue Mound this noon and is now in the county jail. He will be confronted by Mr. Dennis and the little girl. The officers think that Finn does not fill the bill, but Sheriff Foster will hold him in custody until all doubt of his innocence is removed.

A LITTLE WAIF.

Peculiar Conduct of a Mother who Deserts Her Offspring

The following rather peculiar story is reported from Effingham, under date of July 25th: Tuesday morning at the Union depot at St. Louis a woman came to the conductor of the Vandalia Railroad and gave him a small child under two years old and a satchel, with an open letter reading as follows: "Conductor: Leave this child at Effingham in charge of John Har, lawyer." The conductor, Joe Hazleton, refused to take the child, whereupon the woman placed it in the arms of the brakeman and ran. At Effingham the child was delivered to John Heer, the telegraph operator, who, after feeding it, began the search for the owner. No one is living here by the name of John Har. In the satchel was clothing and a properly executed deed for forty acres of land in Jasper county to Lever Kibler, together with tax receipts. Kibler has relatives in this city, and one of them the wife of one of our prominent citizens took the child and said she thought it must belong to one of her relatives, but she was utterly unable to account for the strange proceeding of its mother.

McCormick Acquitted.

The preliminary examination of James McCormick, the coal miner, arrested on a state warrant charging him with making a murderous assault on his wife, in the 5th ward, during the early part of the present month, was had before Justice Curtis, and was concluded late last evening. Strong arguments for the conviction and acquittal of the defendant were made by Charles Cariens and Thomas Lee respectively. The Justice concluded that the testimony was too weak to warrant him in holding McCormick to await the action of the December grand jury, and so he discharged the prisoner. It appears that Mrs. McCormick, who was roughly handled, has about recovered from her injuries. She took no part in the prosecution, staying away from the place of the trial. This morning an effort was made to have McCormick fined for assault and battery under the warrant on which he was first arrested, but this move failed, and the accused was permitted to depart for his home in company with his wife, who came up town to-day wheeling a small buggy in which was a child about 18 months old.

Suits for Damages.

Thomas Lee has entered suit against the City of Decatur on behalf of his client, Mrs. Hattie Welch, a widow woman, who is now in Piatt county. The amount claimed is $6,000. It appears that a few weeks ago Mrs. Welch was injured on West Wood street, on account of a sidewalk alleged to be in bad repair. She fell and dislocated her left shoulder besides spraining her left ankle.

Suit has also been commenced against Mr. Zack Baughn, of Warrensburg, to recover alleged damages fixed at $6,000. The plaintiff is William Woody, who was arrested on May 11th, at the instance of Mr. Baughn, who charged Woody with stealing a certain amount of wheat, oats and corn from a car at Warrensburg. Woody remained in the county jail for 11 days. The grand jury failed to find a bill against him and he was discharged. The counsel for Woody are Thornton, Eldridge & Hostetler and Thomas Lee.

The Benefit Fair.

There was a good turnout at the Alert's benefit fair and festival at the tabernacle last night, given under the general management of Mrs. Foster, Mrs. Howes, Mrs. Shafer, Mrs. Cox, Mrs. Frank Haines and others. The tables were in charge of the following ladies:

Supper table Mrs. J. W. Phillips, assisted by Misses Minnie Stevens, Mollie Beal and Clara Boyer.

Supper table—Mrs. D. Shepherd, assisted by Misses Ida McCormick, Mary Kipp and Hattie Willis.

The two ice cream tables were conducted, one by Mrs. F. M. Cox, the other by Mrs. Joseph Shafer and Mrs. T. L. Antrim.

Lemonade stand Logan Phillips and Will Wood, assisted by Oscar Keenan.

Floral table Misses Minnie Brooks and Geneva Stewart.

Confectionery table Miss Alice Hawkes and Mrs. M. E. Cook.

To-day dinner was served from 11:30 to 2 p. m., and this evening supper will be provided after 5:30 o'clock. The voting to-night will be spirited. Go this evening and witness the close of the festival.

ANOTHER MATINÉE.

More Trotting and Pacing on August 4th for More Prizes.

Grand matinee of trotting and pacing for Decatur road horses at Brenneman & Downing's Park, on Friday, August 4, for four prizes:

First horse, one of Wayne Bros.' fine $60 road carts. Second horse, one genuine imported lap robe, cost, $15. Third horse, fine lap robe, $10. Fourth horse, gold-mounted track whip, $5.

Horses barred, "Magnet," "Agnes" and "Standford."

Entrance fee, 10 per cent., payable before starting in race.

The road carts made by Wayne Bros. are justly regarded by horsemen as the very best that have ever been offered to the public, and the one to be competed for is a daisy. 17 d7

THE St. Louis artist, Edwin Wright, has painted an oil portrait of the late Jacob H. Miller, who was long associated with the Decatur fire department and also with the Macon county agricultural society in an official capacity. The portrait is in a rich gilt frame and may be seen in the window at J. T. Hand & Co.'s book store in opera block. The portrait was painted at the expense of Resene Hose Co. No. 1, in whose headquarters it will be hung in a prominent place.

TO-DAY while a number of men were engaged in making excavations on Officer J. P. Kearney's premises in the 4th ward, they made the discovery of a peculiarly shaped brick that is a puzzle. It is a hard burnt brick, 37½ inches long, 3½ inches wide and 2¼ inches thick. The workmen say it was brought to this country by Columbus in 1492, and is no doubt the same brick that illustrious gentleman used to carry around in his cockade hat in the long, long ago.

He Forgot That.

After he had explained that the old woman was bound and determined to have a new bed-room carpet, and that being he was in town he thought he would take it home and surprise her, he added that he wanted enough Inham carpet to cover a room seven by eleven.

"You mean ingrain," said the dealer.

"Well, I s'pose it's all the same. How much is that piece?"

"Seventy cents a yard."

"Awful steep, but kinder purty. How long will it last?"

"Oh, ten or twelve years."

"Can it be turned?"

"Yes."

"Anything to get out of repair?"

"Nothing."

"Will the colors fade?"

"They are warranted not to."

"Seventy cents a yard, eh? Well, I rather like it. Can the old woman sew it together?"

"Oh, yes."

"And I can nail it down, I reckon?"

"You can."

The number of yards required were cut off, rolled up and paid for, and the buyer soon departed. Two hours had passed and his call had been forgotten, when he drove up to the store, leaped to the walk, and rushing in he called out:

"Haug me, if I hadn't got four miles out of town when I suddenly remembered that I didn't ask you if the blamed thing would wash!"

The Wrong Fur.

A very excited colored brother hunted up an officer patrolling High street, and said that he had long borne the abuse of a man of his color who was then in a house on the next block, and added:

"I doan' want to broke de law, but de time has arrove when I mus' crush dat pusson to de dust!"

"If I catch you fighting I shall have to take you down," replied the officer.

"I can't help it, sah—I can't help it, nohow. If dat pusson makes his disappearance on de street while I is around, de fun am gwine to fly, it I die fur it! He's slandered me an' lied about me, an' I'se gwine to k'rush him same as you would a tiger."

The officer passed on to the end of his beat and returned to find the crusher with his back to the fence and a woman lending him a wet rag to bind his head up.

"Let's see? You are the man who was going to crush some one?" observed the officer.

"I spects I are."

"Did he come out?"

"I spects he did."

"Did the fun fly?"

"Deed, sah, it did, but de trouble was dat it was de wrong fun! De only scoundrel refused to be crushed!"

"And now?"

"Well, I'se gwine to git healed up an' look his grandder in law! Pour on some mo' water, missus, fur dis ole head he gins to swim again.—Detroit Free Press.

Confidence.

When the Duke of Cambridge was about to become the guest of Lord Stratford for a few days at the embassy, he went in his dressing-gown and slippers, at an early hour in the morning, to see that the rooms prepared for his Royal Highness were in order. Finding the Duke's valet arranging the trunks and portmanteaus which had arrived, the Ambassador began to give him directions how they should be placed. The man left off and stared at Lord Stratford.

"I will tell you what it is," he said, "I know how his Royal Highness likes to have his things arranged. So you just shut up and be off, old fellow!"

Lord Stratford went in a towering passion, and, calling one of the attaches, ordered him to go and tell the man who it was that he had ventured to address such language to. The attache returned.

"Well, what did you say to him?" asked the Ambassador.

"I said to him, my Lord, that the person to whom he had ventured to address such language was her Majesty's representative in Turkey."

"Ah, quite right. And what was his answer?"

"He answered, my Lord, that he never said you warn't."

Lord Stratford's anger would be appeased by anything which seemed ludicrous, and he enjoyed a hearty laugh with the attache.

SAID George Eliot: "Childhood has no forebodings, but then it is soothed by no memories of outlived sorrow." You see, George never had any children, and didn't know. Where's the boy of 10 who hasn't the memory of outliving the sorrow caused by the old man's trunk strap, when he put a wet sponge in the old man's boot that squirted water clean up the old man's leg? And hasn't the boy forebodings when he thinks the old man suspects him of putting tar on his hair brush?

New Jersey Grape Wine.

The success of Mr. Speer, the great wine maker of New Jersey, has arisen from the strict purity and valuable properties of his wines for invalids and feeble persons, and his reputation extends over the whole Union as being a reliable producer of pure wines. His Port Grape Wine is now being ordered by families in Brooklyn, London and Paris for its superior medicinal virtues, owing probably to the iron contained in the brown shale rock in the soil on which the vines grow. For sale by Dr. A. J. Stoner. 22 d&w

Great goods are the result of judicious purchases from first hands, and the largest stock with the least expense. That we have attained this end is a pretty well established fact. And though we call attention in our advertisements to special articles, there are no departments and no articles in departments, from the smallest to the largest, that will not bear the same scrutiny. We hold that merchants are as much bound to adhere to the truth in their advertisements as farmers or mechanics in their business transactions, and that misrepresentations are resorted to where there is no merit, and for the purpose of deceiving the plain unsuspecting class, who can least afford the deception which robs them of their dues. Goods constantly change in styles and prices so that the most experienced merchants find it difficult to determine values, and the seeming artlessness which invests the ordinary buyer, or the Dutch or Irish public with a knowledge of merchandise, that item merchants can do not possess, may be very flattering indeed, but time observation is only made to lull persons into security in order to practice artful greater deception. There is no law to punish dealers for representing their purchases as coming direct from importers and manufacturers, when the facts are against them. Not for giving specialty items for making down goods after six weeks maturing liber, TWO HUNDRED PER CENT. BELOW COST. But the dealer who indulges in such misrepresentations on paper will do so over the counter, consequently to know courtesy where it does not belong or to ATTEMPT to cheat for the interests of all competitors might seem very magnanimous were it not for those palpable evidences to the contrary. We invite the most critical investigation to what we say and do. Dry Goods, and Carpets. Isn't to excess, other articles of merchandise imposing, our stock.
